List of Plates, etc.

Pearson and Morant: The Cromwell Head.

The Wilkinson Head in Right Profile, showing the oak pole and the corroded tip of the iron prong, and the Cincture marking the removal of the skull-cap to take out the Brain. Note flowing moustache and hair on chin . . . . . Frontispiece

Plate I. Photograph of Egyptian Criminal and of his Skull . . to face page 270

Plate II. Drawing of the Skull of Egyptian Criminal fitted to the Drawing of his Face. To show the manner in which the real Skull fits its actual Face . . . . . „ „ „

Plate III. J. T. Smith's Engraving of John Cranch, "an impecunious person of poetic nature," Writer of the first account of the Head discussed in this Memoir . . . . . „ „ 279

Plate IV. Title-page of John Cranch's account of the Cromwell Head with an Engraving of it by him, 1799. [The Head has been reversed in the Engraving] . . . . . „ „ „

Plate V. John Cranch's Oil Painting of the Head. The Painting is in the possession of Canon Horace Wilkinson. Painted in 1799 or thereabouts . . . . . „ „ 292

Plate VI. Sepia Drawing of the Wilkinson Head from a grangerised copy of Pennant's London, 1790, in the Print Room, British Museum. Probably from the last quarter of the 18th Century . „ „ „

Plate VII. The Lord Protector lying in state at Somerset House. From an Engraving by Jas. Caldwall of an original Print in the Collection of John Towneley, Esq. The original Print must have been contemporary, see Plate VIII . . . . . „ „ 300

Plate VIII. His Highness' Effigies standing in state. From an Engraving by Jas. Caldwall of an original Print in the Collection of John Towneley, Esq. The original Print must have been contemporary, for it appears much reduced as Frontispiece to Carrington's History of the Life and Death of...Oliver, late Lord Protector, 1659, the Year following Cromwell's Death . . to face page 300

Plate IX. Facsimile of the Inscription on the gilded plate found on Cromwell's Breast when his Coffin was opened at the Exhumation. Copy with Statement by Dr Cromwell Mortimer in the possession of Karl Pearson . . . . . „ „ 298

Plate X. Facsimile of the Resolution of the House of Commons for the Exhumation of the Bodies of the Regicides and their Hanging on the Gallows at Tyburn, with the Lords' Amendment "in their coffins." From the Library of the Speaker, by his kind permission . . . . . „ „ 310

Plate XI. Facsimile of the Mason's Receipt for the Money for digging up the Bodies of Cromwell, Ireton and Bradshaw. From Dr Cromwell Mortimer, in the possession of Karl Pearson. . „ „ „

Plate XII. Interior of Westminster Hall during the Trial of Charles I. Bradshaw presides and Cromwell is on his right at K „ „ 314

Plate XIII. The Triple Gallows at Tyburn, with the Pit for Burial below the Gallows. From a contemporary Dutch Print . . „ „ „

Plate XIV. The Scene at Tyburn. The Building seen under and above the Gallows appears to be Westminster Hall. Whether the Building on which the Heads are poled is supposed to be the South End of the Hall we cannot say; it is more like the West Side curtailed. From a contemporary Dutch Print . . „ „ „

Plate XV. Plan of Westminster Hall and Palace in Tudor Times (based on early maps and other sources of information). From William Newton's London, Westminster and Southwark as in the Olden Times... London, 1855. The Plan shows jagged steps on both Gables of the Hall, the Fish Yard to the West of the Hall and the range of Buildings at the South-West Corner and others South of the Hall (the former may have included "Heaven") . „ „ 316

Plate XVI. View of the City of Westminster. Print showing the Buildings at South End of Westminster Hall, which would not hinder, however, the View from Lambeth and the River of Heads poled at that End . . . . . „ „ „

Plate XVII. Print showing View of Westminster Hall from the River. The Roofs of Buildings at South-East Corner would not screen Heads poled on the South End of the Hall. Part of the Parapet of the Hall, with Windows opening on to it, is visible. Date of Drawing circa 1722 . . . . . to face page 316

Plate XVIII. View of Westminster from St James's Park. Engraving by Hollar, circa 1660, of an ancient Drawing in the Collection of John Towneley, Esq. 1 is the Abbey, 2 the Hall. It is clear that Heads poled on the South End of the Hall would be distinctly visible from the Park . . . . . „ „ „

Plate XIX. View from New Palace Yard of the North End of Westminster Hall. Coffee Houses built up against front on right, then Court of Exchequer Buildings, with "Hell" and "Paradise" beneath them. To left, Door into Tally Court and Receipt of Exchequer; further to left, Doorway to Speaker's Court . . . . . „ „ 319

Plate XX. View of New Palace Yard, Westminster. This View is of some interest because it seems to indicate in the Wall or Palisade in front of the Tudor Buildings (Court of Exchequer) just above the two-horse Coach in the foreground, the Entrance to a Cellar, from which two Persons are coming out. Was this one of the Entrances to the Taverns under the Exchequer? . „ „ „

Plate XXI. Interior of Westminster Hall in Pepys' Day. Court of King's Bench to left, Court of Chancery to right of Steps, Court of Common Pleas in right-hand corner of Print. Stalls for Sale of Books and Hosiery, etc. . . . . „ „ 322

Plate XXII. Leads of St Stephen's, of the White Hall, and of other Buildings at the South End of Westminster Hall, on to any of which the Cromwell Head may have been blown down without falling to the ground. The top-floor of St Stephen's suggests a residence with flowers growing on the flat in front. On the Leads of St Stephen's to the right, behind the ventilator, is a small Pent-house which may have offered shelter to a Guard. Engraving by J. T. Smith, 1806 . . . . . „ „ 324

Plate XXIII. J. T. Smith's Plan of the Palace of Westminster, showing the Positions in his opinion of the Taverns "Heaven," "Hell," "Paradise" and "Purgatory." [Were the Taverns and Coffee-Houses encircling St Stephen's the source of the inebriety of 18th Century Politicians or were such houses there to satisfy their alcoholic cravings?] . . . . . „ „ „

Plate XXIV. The Wilkinson Head. Occipital View showing the wedge of flesh cut out by the axe, with at least two axe cuts inside the wedge, also an axe cut above the vertebra where severance has been finally made by two blows of the axe. The fracture of the Occipital may be seen about half an inch to the left of the piece chiselled out . . . . . „ „ 327

Plate XXV. The Wilkinson Head. Enlarged Occipital View showing the hair on back of Head, the chisel and saw marks on the Cincture and the abnormality of the Sutures in this region. to face page 327

Plate XXVI. The Wilkinson Head. Full face, showing broken Nose, shrinkage of Eyelids, the Cincture, hole for Wart, flowing Moustache on right side (cf. Plate LXV) and broken Lips. . „ „ 330

Plate XXVII. The Wilkinson Head. Full face with the Pole vertical, corroded Point of Iron Spike and the many Pimples . „ „ „

Plate XXIX. The Wilkinson Head. Right Profile, showing Ear cut off and wedge cut out of back of Neck . . . . . „ „ „

Plate XXX. The Wilkinson Head. Three-quarter face, showing the Wart-cavity, the Pimples and the flowing Moustache on Right (cf. British Museum, wax death-mask, Plate LXV) . . „ „ „

Plate XXXI. The Wilkinson Head. Three-quarter face looking slightly down . . . . . „ „ „

Plate XXXII. Skiagram of the Wilkinson Head in Profile, showing Iron Spike and its side-pieces, the Mandible, the Cincture, and the place where the Vertebral Column has been severed . . „ „ 332

Plate XXXIII. Skiagram of the Wilkinson Head with the Skull-cap removed, showing the metal spike and the three nails, which still attach it to the Oak pole. On the border of the Cincture to the right may be seen, as a nearly vertical pale bar, the start of the Occipital Fracture . . . . . „ „ „

Plate XXXIV. Skiagram of the Wilkinson Head, showing a further view of the Iron Spike, the Cincture and Mandible . . . „ „ „

Plate XXXV. Skiagrams of Skull-caps. (a) Young Adult, Sutures open. No Pacchionian pits. (b) Adult, internally Sutures largely obliterated, externally beginning to close. A few Pacchionian pits „ „ „

Plate XXXVI. Skiagrams of Skull-caps. (c) Oldish Adult, externally Sutures largely closed or obliterated, internally nearly fully obliterated. Many Pacchionian pits. (d) Wilkinson Head, showing Hole where Spike was rammed through fracturing the right parietal. Sutures closing or closed. Numerous Pacchionian pits ("Oldish Adult") . . . . . „ „ „

Plate XLIX. National Portrait Gallery, No. 588. Painter uncertain. Crude painting on a small scale in oils. The crumple in the collar and the reflection on armour immediately below indicate that it has some relation to the Lely and the larger Chequers Court Miniature.
